Sketch of St Neots Old Cemetery showing the original named sections and the Curators Lodge

St Neots Old Cemetery was opened in 1881 and many burials have taken place since then. Today, burials now take place in the nearby St Neots New Cemetery or in the newer St Neots Lawn Cemetery.

The Old Cemetery was divided into 17 sections and numbered from A to M, with two H sections and two L sections. The two sections nearest the joining of the two streams were not given letters.

Sketch of St Neots Old Cemetery in 2013 showing the existing paths, the former paths and the building used as a funeral directors

As the Cemetery filled up - some of the pathways were used as burial plots and many of the sections are now interlocked.

The few paths that remain are surfaced with tarmac.

The Curators Lodge was pulled down and replaced with a building that is used, in 2013, by a funeral Directors.

St Neots Old Cemetery Registers

As with most burial sites there are two types of registers - 1) Burial Register with burials in date order and 2) Grave Registers which often list the graves in grave order. The two registers should complement each other, and if the entries are accurate should be the same. However, in St Neots Old Cemetery the grave register did not record the graves in grave order and as the Cemetery became full it became more and more difficult to locate the earlier entries and this led to some inconsistencies in the register. By 1940, sixty years after the cemetery opened there were almost 3000 burials and new plots were being created across pathways and in small areas between existing plots and paths. The numbering of these plots was not always logical or consistent. It was decided around this time to open a New Cemetery across the road where the plots could be easily numbered and recorded.

Today the Old Cemetery Registers have been passed to St Neots Town Council who have kindly allowed the registers to be typed up and new up to date plans made. This record is the result of checking both types of registers and the maps and is as accurate as possible.

Some burials have been re-interments from the Baptist Chapel or the United Reformed Church when new building works or road works necessitated the removal of remains from their burial grounds. Although these re-interments are listed as block entries there has been an attempt to read the headstones and to record the names and their place in the Cemetery.

NB The numbers are not always consecutive on the map, especially around the edges of the sections. Also some plots are not full size plots around the edges or in former pathways between the sections.

Numbers listed on the database -

1-3000 + these entries are listed in the Old Cemetery Burial Registers

N nos - these entries are in the new registers which include burials in the Old and New Cemetery

X nos - these refer to people listed on headstones but are not buried in this cemetery.

P nos - these refer to grave plots purchased and may still be unused

Bap - Baptist Church re-interments

URC - United Reformed Church re-interments

Plans - The following pages show the location of the numbered grave plots in sections and a smaller map to show the location of the section within the cemetery. The grave plots have been coloured to show 1) no memorial, 2) headstone, kerbing and or pot and 3) a distinctive memorial such as a cross, angel, obelisk or a distinctive headstone
